YELLOW-FEVER

In Brooklyn-Fatal Cases Strangely Developed on the Vermont Lying in Wallabout Bay-Where the Infection Came From Mystery-Efforts of the Medical and Health Board Anthorities to Stamp it Out-No New Cases Developed for Several Days.

New York World: The report that yellowfever was prevalent among the seamen on the United States men-of-war Colorado and Ver-mont and the employes of the navy-yard startled the residents of Brooklyn yesterday. Sanitary-Superintendent Dr. Raymond was informed by Dr. S. F. Coues, medical director of the naval hospital, that one person had died there Wednesday night of what the staff surgeons had pronounced a clear case of yellow-tever. Dr. Crane, president of the board of be-lith, and Dr. Raymond went to the hospital, and found that three men had died of the same allment, and that three board of the same alment, and that three men had died of the same alment, and that three men had last week, being 179 mere than the week more patients were undergoing treatment for billious remittent fever, which, it is pretty will estilled is relieved as a present of the same week last year. There were 44 deaths from sunstroke, 115 from cholera infantum, 49 from began to look serious. The first appearance of the disorder was on Saturday last, when Dr. Holmes Wykoff, assistant surgeon on the Colorado, was overcome by what was supposed to be exhaustion, heat and possible effects of malaria. He was sent to the naval hospital at once and his case diagnosed as bilious remittent fever. He was conscious of his danger, but, as he was debilitated from close application to his duties on the receiving ship Vermont, he could not rally, and lingered until Wednesday, when he died. The certificate of death described his disease as bilious remittent fever. His remains were buried in the naval cemetery yesterday. He had been six weeks on the Colorado, and in the service since June, 1871. He returned from China a few months ago, and while there suffered from the chagres fever. The effects of this on his nervous sanguine temperament, combined with the fact that while here he spent at least five-sixths of his time in the sick-bay on the Vermont, were resistless when he was attacked by the malaria in Wallabout bay. Dr. Wykoff was thirty-four years old, and born at Cream Ridge, near Trenton, New Jersey. John Hanford, a nurse in the sick-bay on Ridge, near 17-40-00.

He was attacked on Saturday also. He was taken to the naval hospital that night, and died on Sunday. His ailment was also diagnosed as bilious remittent fever. He also diagnosed as bilious remittent fever. He night the staff surgeous of the hospital met in consultation over the case, and their dea clear, strongly-defined case of yellow-fever. The two previous cases presented various symptoms of the yellow-fever, but Hines's case supplied the manifestations not seen in those. All the hospital surgeons, Dr. Coues, Dr. Dearborne, Dr. Bertolette and Dr. Wells, agreed in the decision, after two hours delib-

ration, that it was the real yellow-fever. Michael Flynn, a machinist, who was wait-ing on the Vermont for a detail to service, had been admitted to the hospital on Friday, but the fever did not manifest itself, and he was not treated for it until after the death of Dr. Wykoff and the nurse Hines. He is now convalescent, and will be discharged as soon as he regains his strength. G. F. Olney landsman, and Michael Connell, seaman, were also admitted to the hospital on Mon-day. Olney is convalescent, but Connell is still in danger. He has the bilious remittent watching the case closely, and last night could not speak positively on the symptoms. These patients lived on the Vermont, and were taken sick there. As to the origin of this sudden fever on navy-yard or the members of the board of health. Captain Gerardi, of the Colorado, spoke last night of possible causes, yet he was puzzled to account for the sudden appearance of the ailment on the old Vernont, which has been moored in Wallabout bay for so long without a similar experience. The navy-yard officers have been dredging the narrow south entrance of the bay just in rear of the Colorado and opposite the Vermont, and the muck has been drawn around and dumped on the flats just north of where the Vermont lies. This might give rise to malaria, but Captain Gerardi is not ready to believe this yet, since for all the past summer the prevailing wind has been from the east and southeast, blowing directly over the dumping-ground toward the Vermont and Colorado; and if there were malaria arising from those flats the captain thinks it would have made itself felt among the ships' crews before this. There has been no sickness on either of the ships of any consequence until within the last ten days.

Another predisposing cause suggested is the fact that two city sewers empty their contents in Wallabout bay. One, about four feet in diameter, shows its mouth only a few yards above the stern of the Vermont; another sewer is on the north side of the Vermont, the mouth also exposed. Only one suggestion so far has been made as to the source of the yellow-fever itself. This is the dumping by foreign vessels on the point of made land between the Colorado and the Vermont of the ground now. The following are the ground now. The following a between the Colorado and the Vermont of soil, gravel and stone that had been used for ballast. New York city itself has not suf-fered from an epidemic of yellow-fever since 1822, although the fever has twice, at least, since that year been epidemic on her borders, and the New York health authorities have long been confident that they will never have another epidemic. Dr. Bertolette is standing the supreme court's recent decision that what is called the Bowman or general law, the city council was illegally elected Mayor Bowman continues his force of deputy city marshals as a police organization, and will, it is said, make a motion in the suthe Vermont, no positive opinion has been expressed by the surgeons and officers of the case on the ground that the really material points in the matter have not yet been brought out. In the meantime the city council elected under the old charter, or what is called the wider council, seems to regard the question of its legality as settled by the supreme court, and at its session this evening passed a resolution directing City Marshal Carpenter to arrest Bowman's deputy-marshals and to take possession, whenever practicable, of the city markethouse their headquarters. Any attempt of this kine it is said, will be resisted by Bowman's dep uties, and another scene similar to that of a iew Sundays ago, when two deputy-marshals were killed, is apprehended. A very unsettled condition of the public mind exists in East St. Louis, and great fear prevails that the trouble there will not terminate without

A Kentucky Town Destroyed. ASHLAND, Ky., July 22.—A boat brings news that the town of Callettsburg is al burned up. All the hotels and business houses are in the squares burning now. It is thought it will burn about six squares before stopping. About five squares are burned to house, $7000; Crow house, $5000; Big Sandy hotel, $4000; Meek house, $2000; Dupuy hall, $5000, and many others. The total is estimated at $200,000, with very little insurance. Nearly the entire business portion of the town is destroyed.

Three Men Killed by the Explosion of a Threshing-Machine Boiler. St. Louis, July 22.—A special from Belleville, Illinois, to the Times, says that the boiler of a threshing-machine at work on the farm of Ben Wesset, near that city, exploded, killing William Dexter, of Centreville; Mr. Jones, a neighbor of Wesset, and the engineer, name unknown; mortally wounding a man named Lang, from St. Louis; and seriously injuring Mr. Wesset and his brother, and another man, name not given. The ac-cident is attributed to the incompetency or carelessness of the engineer. A Disastrous Cyclone.

MILWAUKEE, July 22.—The yachts Co quette and Ina, containing a party of young men, left here at ten o'clock last night for Racine, and when off South Point a squall came up and capsized the Ina. The occupants, Henry Elliott, George Elliott, Edward L. Cramer and John Williams, succeeded in getting on board the upturned yacht. After remaining in their perilous position some four hours, and fearing that they would not be rescued, Henry Elliott started to swim ashore for help, since which time nothing has been seen of him. The Ina finally drifted ashore, and the rest of the party returned to this city. The Coquette proceeded on her trip and arrived at Racine this morning. The Elliott's reside in Horicon, Wisconsin.
